La mission de facilitation de Nicolas Sarkozy a Conakry a porte ses fruits (JA n° 3033). DIPLOMATIC BAG

TURKEY-CHAD

AN AIRPORT SOON?

The dossier of the construction of the airport of Djermaya is well on its way. During his official visit to Turkey (February 26 or 28), Idriss Déby Itno spoke with Fatih Bora, the managing director of the Summa group, who was present. In January and in August of 2018, the Chadian president had received in N'Djamena Envar Sayan, the head of operations of this Turkish group that is present in 7 countries in Africa (Congo, Equatorial Guinea, Libya, Nigeria, Rwanda, Senegal and Eswatini).

BURUNDI

LEAVING THE ROAD

This February 23, Christine-Nina Niyonsavye, ambassador of Burundi in France since July 2017, received a letter recalling her to Bujumbura signed by Ézéchiel Nibigira, their minister of Foreign Affairs. According to several sources, her outspokenness has irritated several western chancelleries, in particular her intervention during the Francophonie Summit, in October of 2018, during which she defended sovereigntist stances.

RUSSIA-AFRICA

PREPARATIONS FOR THE SUMMIT

Vladimir Poutine is preparing the first Russia-Africa summit, which will take place on October in Sochi. On February 25, he appointed Iouri Ouchakov, his faithful diplomatic adviser, as head of the organization committee. The Roscongress Foundation will be in charge of the logistics. Their head, Alexandre Stouglev, is a part of the St. Petersburg network, close friends of the president.

STEINMETZ AFFAIR

How Sarkozy reconciled his friends

Beny Steinmetz and Alpha Condé, on February 23

Nicolas Sarkozy's facilitation mission in Conakry has borne fruit (JA no. 3033). In conflict for a decade, his friends Alpha Condé and Beny Steinmetz met at the time of his visit, without his presence. Steinmetz has not only renounced blocks 1 and 2 of the Simandou iron mine, but he has also committed, in writing, to remove his charges against George Soros and Le Canard enchainé, accusing him of having carried out a campaign of misinformation against him. According to our information, the Israelite diamond dealer had attempted to meet the Guinean Head of State twice: during the Cedeao summit in Lomé, on July 2018, and then during the UA summit in Addis-Ababa, last February. The head of the BSGRE had no success on both occasions, with Condé refusing to meet with him.

After discussing with the latter in January 19 during the nomination ceremony of Andry Rajoeline in Madagascar, the French ex-president continued the negotiations. He organized meetings between Steinmetz and Guinean emissaries in his home. Hamed Bakayoko, the minister of defense of Côte d'Ivoire, friend of the two parties, also played an intermediary role, with the support of Alassane Ouattara.

MOROCCO

Brothers under high surveillance

In two phases, beginning and ending in February, the Moroccan police shut down ten premises and apartments (notably in Tangier, Casablanca, Fes and Kenitra) serving as worship and gathering places for the Islamic association Al Adl Wal Ihsane (Justice and Benevolence). This illegal but tolerated organization, which continues to advocate the instauration of a caliphate via kaouma ("uprising"), propagated preaches against "despotism" and "depravation" in those locations. Under high surveillance in Morocco, where they attempt to systematically infiltrate social and associative movements, the association lead by Mohamed Abbadi is expanding in Europe.

According to safe sources in Rabat, members of Al Adl among diaspora communities have, under the guise of educational associations, contacted Pablo Iglesias' Spanish party Podemos, the Islamic university of Rotterdam, which is led by the chancellor Ahmet Akgündüz, of Turkish origin, and even the entourage of the Italian president Sergio Mattarella. The Moroccan services are also closely observing the implantation attempts in Senegal, Mali, Niger and Nigeria of this brotherhood that does accept Mohammed VI's title of commander of the faithful.
